

David Hahm

David Hahm is the Program Director of WeGO (world e-governments organization of cities and local governments).

David grew up in sunny Southern California and relocated to Seattle, Washington to earn his undergraduate degree from the University of Washington Foster School of Business. He received his Juris Doctor from Seattle University School of Law. Prior to joining WeGO, he worked as the Operations Manager for an official Airbnb partner company, helping people feel like they belong anywhere when visiting host cities around the world. David also worked as a Project Manager for e-learning content development companies in South Korea and helped launch successful e-learning platforms. In his free time, David likes to write novels and is an avid fan of the NBA.

He earned his Juris Doctor from Seattle University School of Law and his undergraduate degree from the University of Washington Foster School of Business.

He has been working closely with WeGO member cities to help them pursue Smart Sustainable Solutions through e-Government Training Programs, CeDS(City e-Government Diagnostic & Solution Online Platform), and WeGO's Feasibility Study Projects (2015 Focus Area: Civic Participation System for Hanoi, San Fernando, Quezon). He works closely with Seoul Metropolitan Government to hold workshops where WeGO members can learn from Seoul's smart sustainable city solutions.
